

SCIENCE CORNER – campus of young science presents: International networking opportunities for young scientists and professionals

Global challenges require global actions and, above all, international exchange and networking. Together with the international partners ISWA, RETech, DGAW, and IWWG, a brainstorming workshop is organized.

We want to discuss topics related to networking and career opportunities:

- How to develop internationally as a young professional?
- How to develop subject-specific professionally as a young professional?
- How to include professional development into the work-life balance?

Tell us about your wishes and expectations and get in touch with leading representatives of the participating organizations.

When? Tuesday 31.05.2022, 10:00 am - 12:30 pm
